Part 2

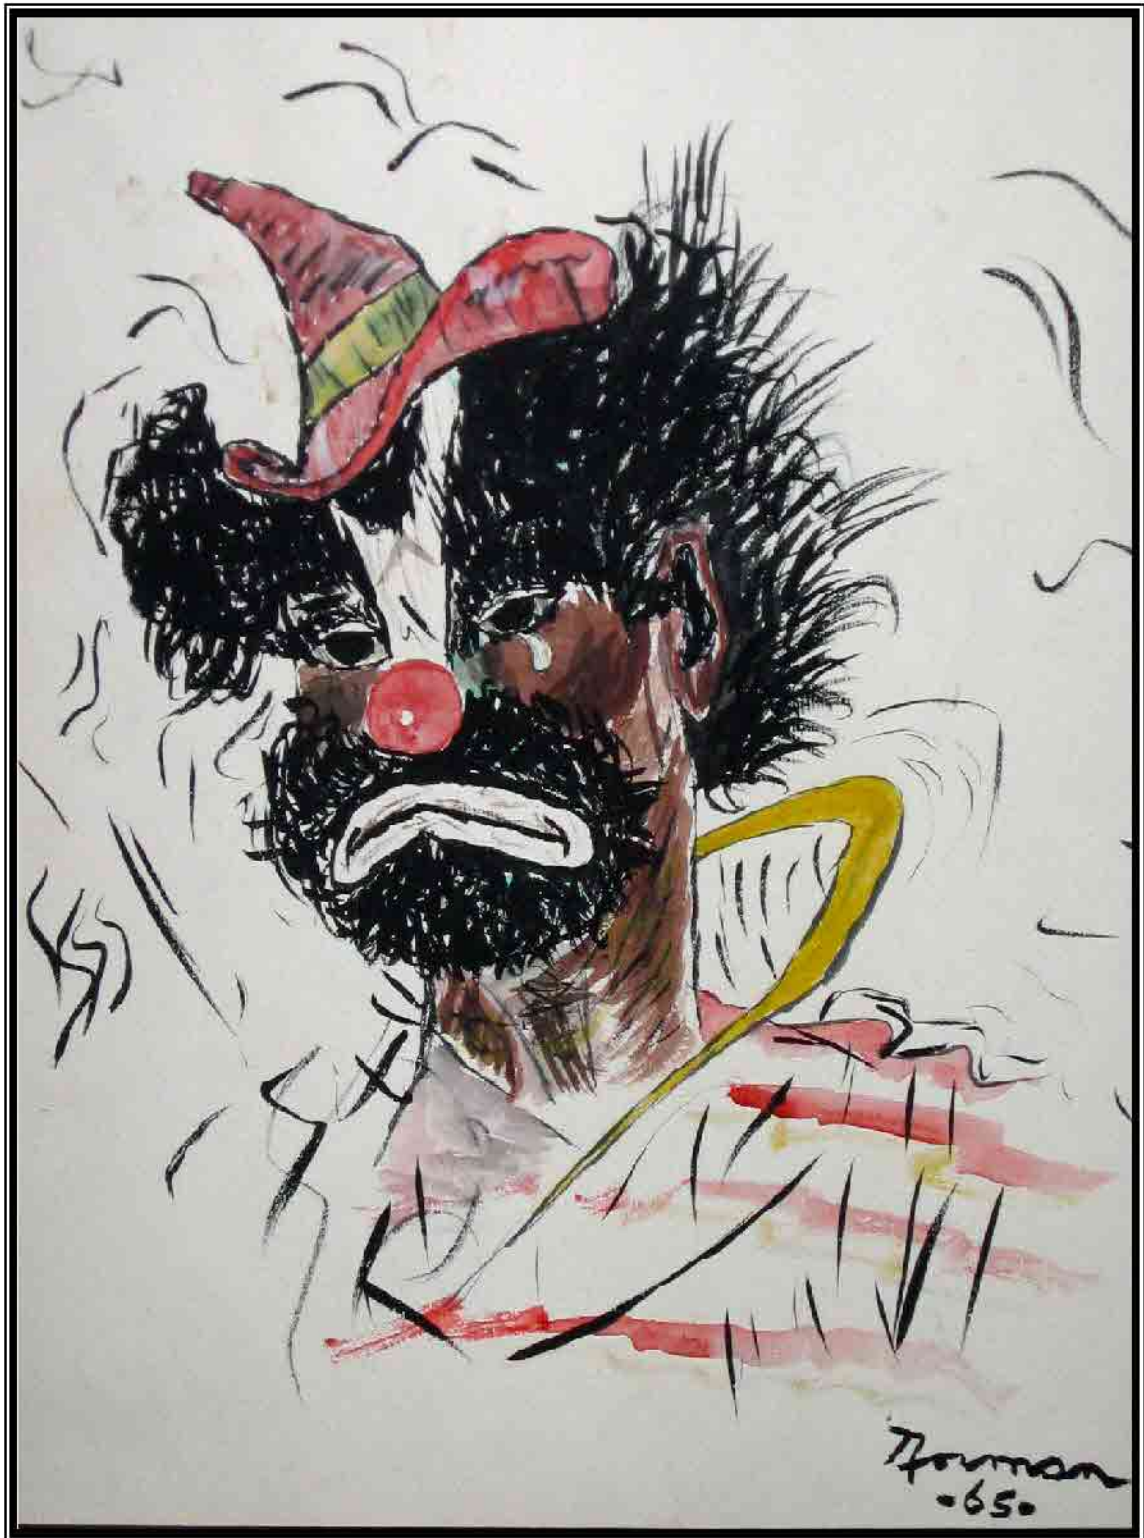

Another Form of Creativity

It has been a long time but I used to really enjoy drawing. "Don't Rain on My Parade" and "The Clown" are two of my favorites. I am including a small portfolio of my work.

Don't Rain On My Parade

The Clown

One Sunday morning in 1965, I was reading the newspaper. There was an advertisement similar to one that had at one time been seen inside of matchbook covers. You were asked to draw a figure similar to one in the ad and then send it in to learn if you had drawing talent. I assume that regardless of your ability, a home correspondence art course would be offered to you for a price. I made a pencil outline of the clown and then colored it in with water colors. I never answered the ad.
